Introduction

In 1969, the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development published its first Index to Mining Assessment Reports as a service to mining exploration companies and individuals working or planning to work in the Yukon or Northwest Territories. The reports are arranged using the National Topographic System (NTS) numerical order (see map index pages which follow the introduction).

This index lists 4,025 technical reports that cover diamond drilling; geological, geochemical and geophysical surveys; and preliminary and feasibility studies. These reports have been submitted as evidence of the performance of representation work on mineral claims and prospecting permits. Both confidential and released reports are listed with the pending release date (year, month and day) indicated for the confidential reports. In the Northwest Territories, assessment reports are held on a confidential basis for a period of three years from the date of submission or three years after expiry of a prospecting permit or a coal exploration licence. Reports that were submitted through the Atomic Energy Control Board (AECB) remain confidential unless released by the company which submitted them.

Released reports are available for reading and copying, either in microfiche format or paper, at the mining geology division offices in Ottawa (Hull), Whitehorse and Yellowknife, at the addresses given at the end of the introduction. Only microfiche is available for reading in Ottawa. Microfiche copies may be purchased at any of the geology division offices at a cost of $1.00 per fiche.

The preparation of this index involved many thousands of hours of work by employees of the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, who transferred data from the assessment reports to the computer file now known as GEOSCAN/MINISIS information system. The first reports were indexed in late 1970 and by 1986 a total of over 7,000 DIAND-held assessment reports were held in the GEOSCAN/MINISIS system. This bibliographic data-base is supported by most provincial governments as well as two federal government departments. Since its inception in 1967, the management of the GEOSCAN/MINISIS system has been located at the National Geoscan Centre, now part of the Geological Survey of Canada, Department of Energy, Mines and Resources, Ottawa.

Introduction

En 1969, le ministère des Affaires indiennes et du Nord canadien (MAINC), publiait, pour la première fois, l'Index des rapports d'évaluation des mines, publication destinée aux sociétés de prospection minière et aux particuliers ayant entrepris ou comptant entreprendre des travaux au Yukon et dans les Territoires du Nord-Ouest. Les rapports sont classés selon l'ordre numérique du Système national de référence cartographique (voir l'index des cartes dans les pages qui suivent cette introduction).

Le présent index compte 4 025 rapports techniques touchant les forages au diamant, les levés géologiques, géophysiques et géochimiques, les études préliminaires et les études de faisabilité. Ces rapports ont été présentés comme preuves de l'exécution des travaux obligatoires dans les concessions minières et les zones visées par des permis de prospection. On y donne la liste des rapports confidentiels et publics, ainsi que la date (année, mois et jour) à laquelle les rapports confidentiels pourront être rendus publics. Dans les Territoires du Nord-Ouest, les rapports d'évaluation conservent un caractère confidentiel pendant trois ans à partir de la date de présentation du rapport ou de la date d'expiration du permis de prospection ou du permis d'exploration de la houille. Les rapports présentés à la Commission de contrôle de l'énergie atomique demeurent confidentiels, à moins que la société qui les a présentés ne décide de les diffuser elle-même.

Il est possible de consulter les rapports publics sur microfiche ou sur papier en se rendant aux bureaux du MAINC traitant de géologie minière Ottawa (Hull), à Whitehorse et à Yellowknife. L'adresse de ces bureaux figure à la fin de l'introduction. A Ottawa, cependant, seules des microfiches peuvent être consultées. On peut obtenir copie des rapports sur microfiches à tous les bureaux de géologie minière au coût de un dollar par fiche.

La préparation du présent index a demandé des milliers d'heures de travail à des employés du MAINC qui ont introduit des données des rapports d'évaluation dans la banque informatisée connue maintenant sous le nom de système d'information GEOSCAN/MINISIS. Les premiers rapports ont été répertoriés à la fin des années 70 et, 1986, plus de 7 000 rapports d'évaluation présentés au MAINC avaient été entrés dans le système GEOSCAN/MINISIS.

During the period 1981-1984, the GEOSCAN data base was reformated to conform to an internationally accepted bibliographic standard. This new standard allows users to access the GEOSCAN/MINISIS system from remote terminals, provided the user has the proper codewords and an account with the Geological Survey of Canada.

This Index to Mining Assessment Reports was prepared by the National Geoscan Centre at the request of the Department of Indian and Northern Affairs. We are indebted to Ann Barkworth at the National Geoscan Centre for the many hours of work she spent on helping convert the old records into the new international library standard format.

Cette banque de données bibliographiques est alimentée par la plupart des gouvernements provinciaux et par deux ministères fédéraux. Depuis sa création en 1967, le système est géré par le Centre canadien des données géoscientifiques, maintenant connu sous le nom de Centre national pour Geoscan. Celui-ci fait actuellement partie de la Commission géologique du Canada, ministère de l'Énergie, des Mines et des Ressources à Ottawa.

De 1981 à 1984, la banque de données GEOSCAN a été modifiée pour répondre à une norme bibliographique universellement acceptée. Cette nouvelle norme permet aux utilisateurs d'avoir accès au système GEOSCAN/MINISIS au moyen de terminaux, pourvu qu'ils connaissent les codes appropriés et qu'ils aient un compte à la Commission géologique du Canada.

L'Index des rapports d'évaluation des mines a été établi par le Centre national pour Geoscan à la demande du ministère des Affaires indiennes et du Nord canadien. Nous devons remercier Ann Barkworth, du Centre, d'avoir consacré de nombreuses heures à la modification des vieux dossiers pour satisfaire à la nouvelle norme bibliographique internationale.
